

ABSTRACT

Described is a distributed processing system comprising a plurality of processing objects and an object management system. At least two of the processing objects comprise an interface in the object management system defining a bi-directional non-blocking procedure call from first processing object to a second processing object according to an interface definition language.